

EDITORIAL

PHILLIP CRAWLEY
PUBLISHER AND CEO

DAVID WALMSLEY
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

I agree with Deputy Minister of Public Service Accessibility Yasmine Laroche and would like to send a year-end challenge to Corporate Canada to recruit a person with a disability to their boards in 2020.

Including a person with a disability on a board is not a charitable act – there is ample evidence that it's good for business. If they've risen to the top in their professional roles and also have the right qualifications for appointment to a board, they are very likely to have what it takes to be a strong board asset. To be a champion of diversity and inclusion, one must include people with disabilities. Please remember the tone is always set at the top.

■ Vim Kochhar

Chair, Canadian Foundation for
Physically Disabled Persons;
Toronto